

Banner Mountain Creative; Launches brand new look and feel at bannermountain.com

The Leader in Creative Solutions reinvents their identity on the web

Grass Valley, CA – August 1, 2006 – Banner Mountain Creative, the leader in creative solutions for web, print, media and motion are proud to announce that they completed the design, engineering and animation for a brand new portfolio site to reside at bannermountain.com. The site features extraordinarily easy navigation and living examples of some of the extensive body of work that the firm has completed in the last year. While offering a new look and feel, the site also allows for downloads of case studies and portfolio documents for the firm's work on the web and in print. Further, potential clients can order custom "reels" of some of the amazing animation, motion graphics and film resolution video that Banner Mountain Creative has designed and deployed.

"We are very excited about our new corporate presentation on the web. We have created so much work in the last year alone that our former site had become obsolete. The new format allows us to add portfolio items as they are completed." Says Joel Heppting, Found and Chief Creative Officer at Banner Mountain Creative.

About Banner Mountain Creative: Banner Mountain Creative is a dynamic marketing communications, graphic design and software engineering firm. Offering experience and expertise in all facets of marketing and design for print, the web, software user interfaces and rich media such as; streaming digital audio, video and animation for delivery via the Internet, CD ROM and DVD. Further, we are a full audio and video production house. Everything we create - we create completely in-house at Banner Mountain Creative.

Banner Mountain Creative offers a completely different approach to the creation and deployment of creative marketing. The projects we execute are the realization of the creative vision of our clients.

<http://www.bannermountain.com>